

Exarchate Clergyman Appointed Visiting Scholar at Harvard Divinity School

WE ARE VERY PLEASED to announce that Father Gregory Telepneff, Pastor of our Exarchate's St. John Chrysostomos Church in Saugus, MA, has been appointed a Visiting Scholar at the Harvard Divinity School for the Spring term 2008. He will be examining the influence of Eastern Orthodox Christian spirituality on the Islamic world, and specifically the presence of certain Hesychastic elements in early Sufism.

Father Gregory is graduate of Yale University, holds degrees from the St. Sophia Ukrainian Orthodox Seminary and the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, and completed his doctoral degree at the Graduate Theological Union, Berkeley. He presently teaches religion, theology, philosophy, and ethics as an adjunct professor at Anna Maria College in Paxton, MA. He is a Senior Scholar at the Center for Traditionalist Orthodox Studies, as well.

We congratulate Father Gregory on this significant appointment.
